- On-site Supplemental Health and Safety Services
- OSHA Compliance Assistance
- Health and Safety Management Systems - OHSAS 18001

Industrial Hygiene Services

CAPACCIO's professional industrial hygiene services help evaluate, monitor, and control potential physical, chemical, and biological hazards and employee exposures in your workplace. Our Certified Industrial Hygienists (CIH) can offer assistance with:

- Air sampling
- Biological laboratory and safety program reviews
- Chemical and gas exposure assessments
- Employee medical surveillance program development
- Ergonomic assessments and training
- Facility decommissioning/decontamination/"clean" certifications for vacated premises
- Indoor air quality evaluations/investigations
- Noise monitoring and control/hearing conservation programs
- Radiation control program assistance
- Ventilation system evaluation

Audits

CAPACCIO's comprehensive health and safety audits identify potential gaps within your existing health and safety management program. We evaluate:

- Compliance with OSHA standards and guidelines
- Injury and illness trends and compliance records
- Inspection, testing, and monitoring requirements
- Regulatory permitting and reporting requirements

- Safety systems, programs and procedures
- Training programs and records
- Workplace hazards, exposures, and controls

Our initial audit and report provide a baseline assessment of your program's strengths and weaknesses and a recommended action plan to address and resolve identified areas of potential non-compliance. We also provide suggested system and program improvements, written safety and training programs and procedures, and self-audit and inspection procedures to help continually improve your program and maintain a safe, healthy, and compliant workplace for your employees.

On-Site Supplemental Health and Safety

When your company is in need of short or long-term EH&S assistance, or simply wants to complement staff for a period of time due to a construction/demolition or other project, CAPACCIO's on-site supplemental health and safety services can come to your rescue. With this unique service, a knowledgeable CAPACCIO professional is assigned to visit your site on a regular basis and becomes part of your EH&S team. This service will save your company the hiring, training, overhead and benefits costs associated with hiring additional EH&S staff, and ensures your department continues to run efficiently during these periods, so you continue meeting your specific EH&S goals. Your company will also receive added support and guidance from our entire firm who can assist with creating, implementing or evaluating your current EH&S program.
